

Kenneth E. Behring National History Day Contest

- More than 40 Hoosier students returned from the University of Maryland at College Park, where they competed in the 2009 Kenneth E. Behring National History Day Contest June 14-18, 2009.

- National finalists from Indiana:
Emily Cameron and Josie Gray, Nashville, 10th place, Junior Group Documentary, "One Candle Lights the World: The Legacy of Ryan White"

Kyle Roth and Luke Mathis, Columbus, 12th place, Senior Group Exhibit, "J. Irwin Miller: Local Actions Forge a Global Legacy"

Matt Camerson, Lary Voils, Ben Herr, and Andrew Quackenbush, Nashville, 13th place, Senior Group Documentary, "Communes, Cults, and Kool-Aid: The Legacy of Jim Jones"

- Emily Cameron and Josie Gray received the Indiana award for outstanding project in the junior division for their Ryan White documentary. Matt Cameron, Lary Voils, Ben Herr, and Andrew Quackenbush were awarded Indiana's outstanding project award in the senior division for their Jim Jones documentary.