HISTORICAL SKETCH

In 2002, the Indiana Historical Society held a photography contest called "The History of Me." The goal of the contest was to encourage participants to engage in modern photography in the form of 8 x 10 black and white photographs to better understand how photographs are used as historical documents. The requirement was to create a self-portrait which conveyed something about themselves and their personal history.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection is composed of black and white photographs from the History of Me photograph contest presented by the Indiana Historical Society. There are both individual 8 x 10 photographs as well as several 8 x 10 photographs that are mounted on black paper. Each photograph includes a description, written by the photographer. Also included are the completed contest entry forms and model release forms.
