HISTORICAL SKETCH

In 1999, an Indiana Heritage Research Grant provided funding to the Central Elementary School in Valparaiso, Indiana to produce a research report, which was titled " In the Trenches of American History: A Brief History of Central School of Valparaiso, Indiana, 1861–1927." The research was conducted by Angelica Mortensen and Michael Kenneth Huner. The report examines Central School's history, its importance in the development of education and the public school system in Valparaiso, and its role in social reform.
