BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

James Arthur Stuart was born in Bloomington, Indiana September 2, 1880 to parents Rachel E. (Stepp) Stuart and John Wesley Stuart. After graduating from Bloomington High School, he would attend Indiana University in Bloomington, earning a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1901. With help from classmate Arthur L. Murray, Stuart immediately landed a job in the journalism field at the Muncie Star. In 1905 he would join the editorial staff of the Indianapolis Star, where he would spend the rest of his career, with only a short interruption at the Rocky Mountain News and Denver Times in Denver, Colorado beginning in 1921. He returned to the Indianapolis Star as managing editor in 1923. In 1946 he was promoted to editor. Upon his retirement in 1960, Stuart was named editor emeritus. He was president of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi, and a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, National Press Club, and the Indiana Society of Chicago, among others.

Stuart was active in numerous civic groups as well, such as the Boy Scouts of America, the James Whitcomb Riley Memorial Association, Rotary Club, Indiana Society of Scottish Rite, and Goodwill Industries of Indianapolis. He was an accomplished public speaker, both state-wide and nationally.

Stuart was married twice; first to Moss Farr in 1904, who died in 1915. He had two children from that marriage, Rachel F. and James A., Jr. Then, in 1921, he married Ruth L. Day. Two more children resulted from this marriage, Edward Day (who did not survive infancy) and Lawrence Day. James A. Stuart died May 20, 1975 at the age of 94.

Materials in the collection

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The collection consists mainly of correspondence and ephemera collected by Stuart during his nearly 60-year career in newspaper journalism. It includes letters from early 20th century luminaries in the newspaper business as well as authors, politicians, and artists. It is arranged chronologically, although correspondence from certain individuals has been placed in separate folders by a previous processor (see series contents).

Also included in a separate series is family correspondence from Stuart's later life.

Photographs in the collection include group portraits of Indianapolis Star staff and of some of the clubs Stuart was involved in. Professional headshots, family pictures, and snapshots complete the collection.
