BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Albert E. Handley was born 23 May 1864 in Ohio. The 1870 census for Union County, Indiana, lists him as the seventh of eight children of Even J. and Margaret J. Handley. Given the birthplaces of all the children, it appears that the family moved back and forth between Indiana and Ohio in the 1850s and 1860s.

Albert E. Handley enlisted in the 161st Indiana Volunteer Infantry, Company F, which served in Florida, Georgia, and Cuba, during the Spanish–American War. He was promoted to corporal on 20 August 1898 by Colonel Winfield T. Durbin while the regiment was in Florida. In Biederwolf’s History of the One Hundred and Sixty-first Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, he is listed as a painter from College Corner, Ohio.

Handley was also a member of the 14th Infantry, Company A, in the Philippines and in Fort Brady, Michigan. He contracted malaria and developed heart problems while in the Philippines. The 14th Infantry’s service in the Philippines ended in November 1899; the regiment was then reassigned to Fort Brady and Fort Wayne, Michigan.

The 1910 census for Wayne County, Indiana, lists Albert living in Richmond as head of a household that included his wife, Edith M., their one-year-old son, Claude O., and their one-month-old daughter, Agnes M. However, the 1920 census shows Albert living as a boarder in Wayne County, but shows his children living in the Indiana Soldiers’ and Sailors’ Orphans’ Home in Rush County, Indiana—Claude O., age 11, Agnes M., age 9, and a third child, Mary E., age 7. Albert’s occupation in 1910 is listed as a painter and paper hanger, and in 1920 as a machinist.

Albert E. Handley died on 15 November 1921, and was buried in West Grove Cemetery in Centerville, Wayne County, Indiana.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection consists of sixty-six black-and-white photographs that belonged to Albert E. Handley, and were donated by his daughter, Agnes. Four of the photographs are of the 161st Indiana Volunteer Infantry during the Spanish–American War in 1898. The rest of the photographs pertain to the 14th U.S. Infantry regiment, Company A, during the Philippine–American War, ca. 1899–1902, taken in the Philippines and in Fort Brady, Michigan. Many of these photographs were taken by Chas. M. Ross, Company A photographer from La Crosse, Wisconsin. Many of the photographs are faded, and have captions that were written above the image in black ink on dark mounts. Every effort has been made to transcribe the captions accurately, but many are illegible. The photographs have been arranged in six series, as detailed below.

Series 1, 161st Indiana Volunteer Infantry—Spanish–American War: This series consists of four photographs of soldiers in camp in Indianapolis, in Savannah, Georgia, and in unknown locations in 1898.

Series 2, 14th U.S. Infantry Regiment—Philippines: This series is composed of twenty-seven photographs depicting soldiers in camp and village scenes in Samar and Calbayog in the Philippine Islands; also includes a portrait of Private Claude Durbin of Wayne County, Indiana.

Series 3, 14th U.S. Infantry Regiment—Michigan: This series contains seventeen photographs of soldiers in camp, including several images that may be of Albert E. Handley, and scenes of Fort Brady and the surrounding area, including buildings after a fire at Fort Brady in 1902.

Series 4, F.B.C.C.P.: This series consists of six photographs of groups of soldiers in the woods and one photograph of a group of soldiers in a boat on a large lake. All photographs have “F.B.C.C.P.” written above them, but it is unknown what these initials stand for; the first two could possibly stand for “Fort Brady,” but it is not known if these photographs were taken there.

Series 5, Railroads and Ships: This series includes five images: two of the Great Northern Railroad, one taken aboard a ship, one of the U.S. Army Transport Logan, and a scene of soldiers on a dock.

Series 6, Company Dog and Other Images from Unknown Locations: This series contains a portrait of a dog, a photo of the funeral for the 14th Infantry, Co. A’s mascot dog, and a photo of the dog’s grave. Also included are two photographs of soldiers at a rifle range, but it is not certain if these photos were taken at Fort Brady, Michigan, or in the Philippines. The dog photographs were probably taken in Michigan.
