BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

In 1837 an Anabaptist minister Rev. David Baumgartner and several of his family members left Switzerland to escape religious persecution and settled in Wayne County, Ohio. They wanted to farm but found that land in Indiana was cheaper. Over the next few years, a Mennonite community of about 16 families was established in Adams County, Indiana. Several additional families arrived from Switzerland in 1852 and joined in clearing and farming the land. When railroads came to Adams County, a couple of the Mennonite farmers offered land to the railroad company in exchange for a depot there. Berne, Indiana was officially recorded as a community in 1872. The families and individuals represented here were associated, to various degrees, with this community and the Mennonite church in Berne.

Eichenberger

Frederick G. Eichenberger (1863-1934) was born in Switzerland. He was the son of Frederick and Susanna Eichenberger. He owned the city bakery of Berne for many years. As a young man he played the clarinet in a street orchestra. He served on the town council from 1909 to 1913 and also on the Berne board of education. At the time of his death in 1934 he was a member of the Adams County council. In 1892 he married Sarah A. Burghalter (1870-1945). She was the sixth child of Christian (1833-1928) and Mary [Hartman] Burghalter (1835-1922). Frederick and Sarah had four children: Victor (1893-1981), Edward (1896-1969), Esther A. (1902-1990), and Harold (1910-1933). Harold died at the age of 23 when he was electrocuted while working at the bakery.

Victor A. Eichenberger (1893-1981) was the first-born child of Frederick G. and Sarah [Burghalter] Eichenberger. In 1916 he married Osie Beitler. He grew up working in his father's bakery and by 1930 he had taken over its management.

Edward Eichenberger, Sr. (1896-1969) graduated from Berne High School in 1914 and the University of Illinois in 1920. In the meantime he served in the Army during WWI. After graduation he worked in sales at the National Cash Register Co. and got married. He later worked as a sales manager at the Winner House Manufacturing Co. at Berne. After that he was territorial manager for the Rob Roy Company. He was an active member of the Cross United Church of Christ in Berne, the Lions Club, and the American Legion. He was also interested in local politics as president of the Berne Chamber of Commerce and member of the Republican precinct committee.

Esther A. Eichenberger (1902-1990), third child of Fred and Sarah Eichenberger, was a longtime teacher, including at the Sells School near Tucson, Arizona. There, she taught Native American children of the Tohono O'odham people (at that time called "Papago") from about 1952 to 1975.

Edward Eichenberger, Jr. (1923-2013) was the oldest of four sons born to Edward and Louise [Habegger] Eichenberger. While the other three were born in Dixon, Illinois, Edward was born in Racine, Wisconsin. However, the four boys were reared in Berne. He met his future wife on his first day at Berne High School. He attended Indiana University before joining the Air Force during WWII. He married Marie Schwartz (profiled below) in 1944. He then got a dental degree from Northwestern University Dental School and re-enlisted in the Air Force and served two years as a dental officer, stationed near London, England. Edward Eichenberger, Jr. and Marie had two children, Joel Kirk and Jan Louise Eichenberger.

In 1952 the family moved to Nappanee, Indiana and Dr. Eichenberger opened a dental practice in nearby Wakarusa in 1953. He retired from dentistry in 1976 and worked as a probation officer for ten years. At the time of his death in 2013 he and his wife lived in Harbor Springs, Michigan.

Alan J. Eichenberger (1937-2001), youngest child of Edward and Louise [Habegger] Eichenberger, graduated from Wabash College in 1959, and completed Harvard Divinity School in 1962. He was ordained an Episcopal priest the following year.

Schwartz

Rev. David Schwartz (1862-1953) was born in Adams County to Joseph and Emily [Mazelin] Schwartz. His parents cleared and improved 160 acres in Monroe Township. In 1883, David married Anna Steury (1860-1933), daughter of John and Anna Steury. In 1885 he was ordained as a deacon of the poor in the Amish Mennonite Church in Monroe Township, of which his father was bishop. After two years his father wanted to ordain him as a full minister, but this caused some dissention in the church. However, he was ordained as minister in 1888. In 1890 partisan groups began to appear within the church, and in 1894 it separated. David became leader of one faction, which rejected Mosaic law in favor of that of Jesus Christ. It became known as the Amish Christian Church.

David and Anna Schwartz had ten children, but the only one represented in the collection is the ninth, Jacob D. R. Schwartz, known as “Jack.”

Jacob David Robert “Jack” Schwartz (1900-1992) was born on a farm about four miles north of Berne. When he was ten, the Mennonite Church built a new brick school on the farm of church member Dan Mazelin. Like all his peers, Jack’s formal schooling ended at age 14. For the next several years Jack begrudgingly helped on his father’s dairy farm. Finally, his father allowed him to try another kind of work, and he briefly worked at an automobile garage. This job away from the farm and church allowed him to experience some more secular activities like movie theaters and billiards.

When he was 19 the parochial school needed a teacher, and Jack took the job. He enjoyed teaching and eventually attended summer and extension courses at Ball State University’s teachers’ college. During the Great Depression, the parochial school closed, and Jack and the pupils moved to Monroe Township public school no. 4.

In 1924 Jack married a neighbor, Edna L. Habegger, profiled below. They had three children: Marie (1924-1995), Arthur (1930-?), and Arlene (1933-?).

In 1943 Jack retired from teaching and the family moved to Nappanee, Indiana, where he started a chicken hatchery. He later worked in advertising for the Nappanee Advance News.

Marie Elizabeth [Schwartz] Eichenberger (1924-1995) attended Berne High School, where she met her future husband, Edward Eichenberger, Jr. She also attended Albion College, received her bachelor's degree from Goshen College, and master's degree in English from Notre Dame University. She taught briefly in the Wakarusa public school system and was for many years secretary of the English department at Goshen College. She married Eichenberger in 1944, which was one year after her family had moved to Nappanee.

Habegger

Anna [Lehman] Habegger (1853-1902) was born shortly after her parents arrived in the United States. Anna's parents Abraham and Barbara [Zurcher] Lehman were among the group of Swiss to come to Adams County in 1852. In 1888 she married Jacob P. Habegger. In her 48 years she bore five children and was a devoted mother and faithful member of the Mennonite Church at Berne. J.P. and Anna's children were Carl T. (1889-1970), Christina (1891-1980), Esther (1893-1967), Martha Louise (1895-1973), and Joel F. (1897-1983).

Jacob P. Habegger (1855-1948) was born in Switzerland, the son of Peter (1824-1898) and Elizabeth [Lehman] Habegger (1829-1904). The family, which then included six of Jacob's siblings and five nieces and nephews, left Switzerland in 1876 and settled near Berne, Indiana. In 1888 he married Berne native Anna Lehman (above) and started a family of his own.

J.P. Habegger and his wife were very active in the Mennonite Church in Berne and sat at the song leader's table. J.P. taught a Sunday School class for over fifty years. He traveled back to Switzerland several times on the church's behalf and became a deacon in 1915.

J.P. Habegger was also a prominent businessman as one of the founders of the Berne Manufacturing Company.

Martha Louise [Habegger] Eichenberger (1895-1973) went by the name Louise. Her parents were J.P. Habegger and Anna Lehman Habegger, profiled above. She married Edward Eichenberger on Christmas Day, 1920. They had four sons, all born before the family returned to Berne: Edward, Jr. (1923-2013), Daniel R. (1925-1997), Charles Hugh (1928-?), and Alan J. (1937-2001)

Edna L. [Habegger] Schwartz (1906-1998) was the fourth of eight children of Joel H. (1874-1931) and Elizabeth [Mazelin] Habegger (1877-1935). In 1924 she married her neighbor Jack Schwartz. They had three children: Marie (1924-1995), Arthur (1930-?), and Arlene (1933-?). Jack and Marie both became teachers, and as an adult Marie helped her mother with her high school equivalency courses. At the age of 57 Edna completed a group of courses with a 90% average.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection consists of materials from more than three generations of the Eichenberger, Schwartz, and Habegger families, who came to Adams County, Indiana from Switzerland in the second half of the 19th century. The collection has been arranged in three series, one for each of the three most prevalent family names within the collection. It consists of photographs, genealogical records, and some family correspondence.

The series are ordered according to amount of material. Eichenberger was the most prevalent, so Series I is Eichenberger. Series II is Schwartz, and Series III is Habegger.

In cases where a woman with one family name married into another, her material is arranged under the corresponding name. For example, Louise Habegger's report cards are in the Habegger series (Series III), but the Ed and Louise [Habegger] Eichenberger photo albums are in the Eichenberger series (Series I).

However, in cases in which a surname is not among one of the three prevalent names, that material has been arranged in the series with which it was most associated. For example, Burghalter items are arranged in the Eichenberger series since Sarah A. Burghalter married Frederick G. Eichenberger in 1892.

The collection is heavy on photographs and at its time of donation consisted of several photo albums. In most cases, the photographs had to be removed from the albums in processing. Many of them showed evidence of having been mounted in and removed from previous albums before donation. In the case of Eichenberger family album 1 and Eichenberger family album 2 (Photographs Box 1, folders 12 to 17), the photographs have been left on the black album pages due to the identifying information written on the pages. Gloves are highly recommended for handling these pages.
