HISTORICAL SKETCH

The Inter-Museum Promotional Action Team (IMPACT) was founded in 1975. It consisted of eleven member organizations which included Conner Prairie Pioneer Settlement, the Indianapolis Zoo, the Benjamin Harrison Home, the Indianapolis Museum of Art, the Children's Museum, the Museum of Indian Heritage, the Historic Landmarks Foundation of Indiana, the Lilly Center, Hook's Drugs, the James Whitcomb Riley Memorial Association, and the Indiana State Museum. The IMPACT Board of Directors consisted of one representative from each of these organizations.

The Purpose of IMPACT was to enhance cooperation between member institutions so that promotion could be done more economically; attendance at museums could be increased by encouraging a learning, family atmosphere; public awareness and appreciation of cultural and environmental heritage of Indiana could be increased; and tourism and cooperation with government and business could be promoted. IMPACT held several exhibitions and participated in conferences. The Inter-Museum Promotional Action Team ceased operations in 1992.
