BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

The Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family of Columbus Indiana is a multi-generational unit whose members were active in business, philanthropy, religion, and politics in their community and state, but also nationally and internationally. This collection tells the stories of each of the main family members individually, but also reflects on the cohesiveness of the family unit as a whole.

Joseph Ireland Irwin (August 6, 1824-August 13, 1910) was born to John and Vilinda Irwin on farm near Columbus, Indiana. As a child, Irwin attended pioneer schools and helped his father tend to the farm. In 1846, however, he took a job as a clerk at a dry goods store in Columbus, where the story is that to save money, he used to walk the four miles between work and home. By 1850, Mr. Irwin had saved $150 and bought the dry goods store himself. In this same year, on August 15th, Mr. Irwin married Harriet Clementine Glanton, the daughter of James Jeter Glanton and Amanda Troutman Glanton. Mr. Irwin seemed to have made a name for himself in the community by this time because Mrs. Irwin was said to have recalled a relative telling her “if Joe Irwin ever asks you to marry him, you tell him yes and glad of the chance.” Joseph Ireland Irwin and Harriet Glanton Irwin had six children, Amanda, Ella, Nettie, Charles Sumner, Linnie, and William, but only Linnie and William survived childhood.

It so happened that Mr. Irwin’s dry goods store had the only safe in the town of Columbus, so farmers and people in the town would come to Irwin with their surplus funds and had him hold them for safekeeping. Soon, Mr. Irwin established a private bank on 3rd and Washington Street. Eventually the bank’s business became so much that he sold the dry goods store and in 1891, but remained President of Irwin’s Bank until his death. In addition to the Bank, Mr. Irwin was also responsible for improving transportation in Columbus. Early on, he recognized the need for a good road to transport goods out of Columbus, and built a system of turnpikes and 50 miles of gravel roads. In 1878, he built the first telephone line in Indiana to connect this store and a toll gate on one of his roads. However, the road and local railroads around Columbus were not enough to support growing population and commerce in the area. Mr. Irwin was convinced by his son William, who also had business interests at this time, to build an interurban line from Greenwood to Columbus. On January 1, 1900, the interurban opened, and Mr. Irwin and his son William continued to operate the Indianapolis, Franklin & Greenwood line, which became the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company when service was extended between Indianapolis and Columbus in 1903, until they sold their interests to the Interstate Public Service Company. Mr. Irwin also had business interests in the tin plate industry, organizing the National Tin Plate Co. in 1894, and also the starch industry, where in he turned an abandoned starch mill in Edinburgh, IN into the Union Starch & Refining Company.

In addition to his business interests, Mr. Irwin was a staunch Republican and a great admirer of Abraham Lincoln and supporter of Governor Oliver Morton and President Benjamin Harrison. He was the chairman of the party’s Indiana State Central Committee from 1862-74, and he served as a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1872 and 1884. He was a member of the commission, and contributed the most money to erect the statue of Governor Morton at the Indiana Statehouse. In addition, Mr. Irwin and his family were members and founders of the Tabernacle Christian Church in Columbus. Mr. Irwin served as a trustee on the church board, and also as an elder and treasurer of the church. Mr. Irwin also served his community and the state of Indiana as the Director of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans home (1866-70), a trustee and later President of Northwestern Christian University, later Butler University (1868-1910). Mr. Irwin was a well respected and regarded man in the Columbus area, so much so that on his 85th birthday in 1909 he received hundreds of postcards from well wishers. It could be said that the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family's tradition of giving away vast portions of their wealth to the benefit of their community and world began with Mr. Irwin, as he donated to a variety of charities and also donated the city park and the site of the Columbus public library to the city.

Rev. Zachary Taylor Sweeney (February 10, 1849- February 4, 1926) was born to G. E. Sweeney and Talitha Campbell in Liberty, Casey Co., Kentucky. He was the youngest of a family of nine. Rev. Sweeney's father and grandfather Job were originally Baptist ministers, but G.E. Sweeney later identified with the Christian Church after being influenced by the Restoration movement of Alexander Campbell and Barton W. Stone. Rev. Sweeney spent his childhood in Kentucky, but moved to Illinois when he was 14 to enter the Scottsville Seminary. He remained there for five years, and entered Eureka College for one year, before moving on again to Asbury (DePauw) University, where he was a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. In 1871, he arrived in Columbus, Indiana as the new pastor of the Christian Church, which was patronized by the family of Joseph Ireland Irwin, but he left in 1873 to pursue an opportunity in Louisville, Kentucky. Yet something called him back to Columbus, where he returned in 1875 and married Linnie Irwin, the daughter of Joseph Ireland Irwin. Rev. Sweeney and Linnie Irwin had three children, Nettie, Joseph, and Elsie. The Christian Church in Columbus, under Rev. Sweeney's pastorate grew to be very popular, so he led efforts with his father-in-law to build a new church, the Tabernacle Christian Church. Rev. Sweeney served as minister of the church until 1896. However, during this time, from 1889 to 1893, Rev. Sweeney took a sojourn to Constantinople, where he was appointed by President Benjamin Harrison as the United States Consul General and travelled extensively throughout the Middle East. Sweeney was well liked by the Sultan, and was named as an honorary member of the Turkish Order of Osmanieh.

An avid fisherman, Rev. Sweeney was appointed as the Commissioner of Fisheries and Game for the State of Indiana from 1899 to 1913. Rev. Sweeney's interest in outdoor sport was also what led him to Muskoka Lakes in the province of Ontario, Canada in 1886. Impressed with the area, when Rev. Sweeney returned to Columbus he promoted the area to his friends and family, and soon a multi-family camping trip was planned in Muskoka. The men and children enjoyed the area, but the women in the group were said to have been unenthused, so the group vacationed elsewhere for the next ten years. However, all in the group were still impressed by the beauty of Muskoka, so Rev. Sweeney found a cottage to rent there in 1906, where he was joined by other members of the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller family. Three years later, Joseph Ireland Irwin purchased a permanent home, Llanllar, for the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller family, and the family has been travelling to Llanllar, Windermere, Muskoka every year since.

Additionally, Rev. Sweeney served as the President of the American Christian Missionary Society, the Chairman of the Commission on Foreign Relations, a trustee of Butler University, and founder of the Butler School of Religion (now the Christian Theological Seminary). He toured around as a Chautauqua and lyceum lecturer. Rev. Sweeney was also a published author of such works as Under Ten Flags and The Spirit and the Word, and two volumes dealing with Bible readings. For his lifetime achievements, Rev. Sweeney was honored with a doctor of laws from Butler University, membership in the Victorial Institution of London and the Institute of Christian Philosophy of New York. Rev. Sweeney was remembered as a man who “loved nature and his fellowman and was a delightful companion, full of rare stories, apt for any occasion.”

Linnie Irwin Sweeney (February 25, 1859-February 2, 1944) was born to Joseph Ireland Irwin and Harriet Clementine Glanton in Columbus, Indiana. Mrs. Sweeney and her brother William Glanton Irwin were the only two of their siblings to survive to adulthood. Mrs. Sweeney attended schools in Columbus, and was married to Rev. Zachary Taylor Sweeney when she was only sixteen years old on March 10, 1875. She and Rev. Sweeney had three children, Nettie, Joseph Irwin, and Elsie. However, Joseph Irwin tragically died from a drowning accident the summer before his senior year at Butler when he was only nineteen. During her married life, Mrs. Sweeney was able to travel extensively, due to her husband’s position as Consul General to Constantinople and also to accompany her daughter Elsie to Berlin in order to study piano with Josef Lhevinne and to London to be presented to the court of King George V and Queen Mary in 1920. Mrs. Sweeney served with her brother William as a Director of the Union Starch & Refining Company, the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company, the Irwin Union Trust Company, and Butler University. She also joined her brother in making financial contributions to the First Christian Church (formerly her husband’s pastorate, Tabernacle) building fund, the Butler School of Religion, and the Christian Foundation. In addition, Mrs. Sweeney taught a Sunday school class for young men for twenty-nine years, as a way for her to serve the memory of her late son, Joseph Irwin. She also delighted in being “Mamaw” to her two grandchildren, Joseph Irwin and Elizabeth Clementine Miller. It was said of Linnie Irwin Sweeney that she possessed a “rare personal charm and inherent strength of character.”

Rev. John Chapman Miller (May 12, 1831-September 17, 1901) was born to John Smith Miller and Gertrude Denslow in Nineveh, Indiana. Rev. Miller was inspired while he was in school at Satterwaithe’s Academy to pursue higher education. Since Rev. Miller’s father had passed away when he was three years old, the Miller family was not every wealthy, and Rev. Miller worked as a farm laborer and a schoolteacher in order to save up enough money to enroll in the scientific course at Indiana University in 1855. Following his graduation, Rev. Miller spent a year studying law at Indiana University, but decided that he was rather called to the ministry. He enrolled at Bethany College, where Alexander Campbells was still teaching, in the fall of 1856. He began his ministry in the fall of 1858 in Providence, Indiana. In 1862, Rev. Miller married Elizabeth Ann “Betty” Garr, and together they had six children. Rev. Miller built a home at Nineveh in 1866, where he conducted an academy to prepare students for higher education. Then, in 1871, he was offered a chair of philosophical and Biblical literature at Northwestern Christian University (Butler University) and the Third Christian Church of Indianapolis called him to be their pastor. In 1876, however, Rev. Miller left Indianapolis in order to raise his children at Nineveh, where he preached at churches all around the area, worked on his farm, and educated his children at home. Rev. Miller was a very learned man, and could read several languages, including Latin and Greek. He was very well known around Johnson County, having presided over a vast number of weddings, funerals, and baptisms, and at the time, his funeral was said to have been the largest gathering of the kind ever held in Nineveh. Rev. Miller was said to be a “man of firm convictions, absolute fearlessness, ready wit and sound judgement.” Rev. Miller’s funeral rites were conducted by Rev. Zachary Taylor Sweeney.

Hugh Thomas Miller (March 21, 1867-May 26, 1947) was born to Rev. John Chapman Miller and Elizabeth Ann Garr on a farm in Nineveh, Johnson County, Indiana. Mr. Miller received his early education at home from his father, where he also worked on the family farm. In 1883, he entered Butler College (Butler University), where he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1888 and a Master of Arts in 1895. During his time at Butler, Mr. Miller was active in Phi Delta Theta, Phi Kappa Phi and Tau Kappa Alpha. Mr. Miller actually continued his activities with Phi Delta Theta as Secretary of the General Council from 1889-1894, and President of the General Council from 1894-96. After that, he served as a national reporter for the fraternity publication The Scroll, from 1896-1902. In addition, he served as the business manager for the Butler Collegian, the Glee Club, and the Pythonian Society. Upon his graduation, Miller returned to Columbus, but soon accepted a position as an instructor in French at Butler in 1889. In 1892, he left Butler again in order to attend the Sorbonne in Paris and the University of Berlin, while also travelling throughout Europe. Miller returned to the United States again and Butler in 1895 as an instructor in History and Spanish. While teaching at Butler, Mr. Miller met Nettie Sweeney, the daughter of Rev. Zachary Taylor Sweeney and Linnie Irwin Sweeney, who was a student. They were married on December 26, 1900 and had two children, Joseph Irwin, and Elizabeth Clementine. Mr. Miller gave up his position at Butler in 1899 to return to Columbus and take a position as cashier and later as Vice President of Irwin’s Bank. Miller also had an interest in politics, and served in the Indiana General Assembly from 1902-03. From there, he was elected and served as Lieutenant Governor of the state from 1904-09. Mr. Miller also ran two unsuccessful bids for Senate in 1914 and 1916, the latter time having to drop out due to contracting tuberculosis.

Mr. Miller also took part in the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family business and community interests. In addition to serving as Vice President (and later President) of Irwin’s Bank (later Irwin Union Bank & Trust), he was also a Director at Union Starch and Refining Company, a Director at the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company, a Director at Cummins Engine Company, and Chairman of the Board at Cummins Engine Company. Mr. Miller was also involved as a member of the Board of Directors at Butler University, and Trustee for the Central Indiana Hospital for the Insane, a Director of the Christian Foundation, the President of the Bartholomew County Tuberculosis Association, and as the Chairman of the Board of the Tabernacle Christian Church (later First Christian Church). Outside of these activities, Mr. Miller had a keen interest in genealogy, and produced an article for the Indiana Magazine of History, "Chapman Denslow and His Family", and additionally published a history of the Tabernacle Christian Church in Columbus, and the Nineveh Christian Church, as well as a biography of his father, John Chapman Miller in the Shane Quarterly. Mr. Miller also enjoyed astronomy and puzzle solving. Mr. Miller was remembered as a man whose "intellect, scholarship and deep understanding made him a natural leader."

Nettie Sweeney Miller (July 5, 1876-February 6, 1960) was born to Rev. Zachary Taylor Sweeney and Linnie Irwin in Columbus, Indiana. She was the oldest of three children, her siblings being Joseph Irwin and Elsie. Mrs. Miller attended Columbus public schools and then followed in her Uncle William Irwin's footsteps to attend Butler College (Butler University), where she was a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. While at Butler, Mrs. Miller met her future husband, Professor Hugh Thomas Miller. Nettie graduated in 1898, and married Hugh Thomas Miller on December 26, 1900. Mrs. Miller had two children, Joseph Irwin and Elizabeth Clementine. Like other family members before her, Mrs. Miller had interests in philanthropy, the Christian Church, and business. Mrs. Miller served on the Board of Directors at Butler University, and took particular interest in serving on the Board subcommittee for the Butler School of Religion. Mrs. Miller also taught Sunday School for more than forty years, and was on the Board of Directors of the Christian Foundation. Mrs. Miller also oversaw the family's philanthropy as the first Chairman of the Board of the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Foundation. She also served on the Board of the Union Starch & Refining Company, the Irwin Union Trust Company, and Cummins Engine Company. Mrs. Miller was said to have inherited her father, Rev. Sweeney's gift for speaking and her mother, Linnie Irwin's warm personal interest in other people.

William Glanton Irwin (November 24, 1866-December 14, 1943) was born to Joseph Ireland Irwin and Harriet Clementine Glanton in Columbus, Indiana. Mr. Irwin attended public schools in Columbus and went to Butler College (Butler University), attaining a Bachelor of Science in 1889. While at Butler, Mr. Irwin was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. Over vacations and summers while at College, Mr. Irwin helped his father at Irwin's Bank, and then became the cashier of the bank upon his graduation. Mr. Irwin took over control of Irwin's Bank in 1910 upon the death of his father, Joseph Ireland Irwin. Mr. Irwin also had business interests with his father in the tin plate industry and the transportation industry. In 1894, he organized the Union Tinplate Co., which built plants in Anderson, Indiana and Monessen, Pennsylvania. In 1898, Mr. Irwin sold their interests to the American Tinplate Co., and encouraged his father to consider investing more in interurban transportation in the Columbus area. Thus, Mr. Irwin became the Vice-President of the Indianapolis, Columbus, & Southern Traction Company, until his father's death, when he became President, and was responsible for extending electric rail lines between Indianapolis and Louisville. Mr. Irwin also partnered with his father to purchase what would become the Union Starch & Refining Company (and Union Sales Corporation), which had plants in Edinburgh, Indiana and Granite City, Illinois. The Union Starch & Refining Company produced corn syrup, corn sugar and other products used by candymakers. Along with Mr. Irwin's interest in transportation by electric rail, he also seized on an opportunity to invest in diesel engines, after being impressed by the models created by his chauffeur, Clessie Cummins. Mr. Irwin provided the financial backing to start the Cummins Engine Company and served as the Chairman of the Board for Cummins Engine Company. Mr. Irwin was an entrepreneur, and invested in a variety of other businesses, after carefully studying business plans and financial markets. Among these were the Purity Stores, a chain of grocery stores in California, American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co., United Electric Coal Companies, Real Silk Hosiery Mills, and Kingan & Co.

Mr. Irwin was also involved with a variety of civic and political causes. During the First World War, he was a member of the State Council of Defense and the State Committee of for the Liberty Loan drive. He chaired the Liberty Loan drive in Bartholomew County. Mr. Irwin also was a large financial support of Butler University, and served on the Board of Trustees, the Executive Committee, as President of the Butler Foundation, as well as with his sister Linnie Irwin Sweeney, gifted $1.8 million to Butler University Christian Foundation (which later became the Christian Theological Seminary). Mr. Irwin was involved with the Indiana National Bank, where he served as President, Rotary International, and the Chamber of Commerce, where he served as a director of the United States Chamber of Commerce in 1936. Mr. Irwin was also active in the Tabernacle Christian Church in Columbus, and his donations helped to fund the construction of the Eliel Saarinen-designed First Christian Church in Columbus, which is now a National Historic Landmark.

Mr. Irwin, like his father before him, was a staunch Republican and very active in party politics. He was a colonel on the staffs of three Indiana governors, was a delegate to all Republican national conventions from 1916 to 1936, and he served as a Republican national committeeman from 1938-40. Mr. Irwin was an ardent supporter of Calvin Coolidge, and he was said to be credited with securing Coolidge the vice-presidential nomination at the convention in 1920. Hence, Irwin was a frequent visitor to the White House. In addition, Mr. Irwin also supported fellow Hoosier Wendell Wilkie in 1940 for the Republican presidential nomination.

In his personal time, Mr. Irwin was an avid gardener, and he helped to design and cultivate the sunken gardens at the Irwin Home (608 Fifth St., Columbus), which he opened to public tours. He also gardened and grew some small crops, such as blackberries, at the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family home in Canada, Llanllar. Mr. Irwin was also a great appreciator and patron of fine art, as he liked to purchase various paintings and statues on his travels abroad, and also hired artists to paint special greeting cards that he sent out at Christmastime. Mr. Irwin also served as a trustee for the Indianapolis Art Association and was interested in the work of students at the John Herron Art Institute.

Mr. Irwin never married, but he was an uncle and great-uncle, who took great delight in his grandniece and grandnephew, Clementine and Irwin, who referred to him lovingly as “Unk”. Mr. Irwin’s sudden death from a heart attack at his offices in Indianapolis came as a great shock to the family and to the community of Columbus. Condolences poured in from near and far, and businesses had to scramble to fill all the orders for flowers to be delivered to First Christian Church for his funeral. Mr. Irwin was remembered as a man who “associated equally well with the humble and people of high estate because he loved people. He loved almost everything in that was worthwhile—flowers, music, art—and this church [First Christian Church] stands as a monument to this love for beauty and simplicity.”

Elsie Irwin Sweeney (July 18, 1888-May 3, 1972) was born to Rev. Zachary Taylor Sweeney and Linnie Irwin in Columbus, Indiana. As a child, Miss Sweeney showed a propensity and interest in music, and she even participated in a children’s singing group called the Miniature Quartet. Miss Sweeney attended Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts, where she received a degree in piano, Phi Beta Kappa, in 1910. Miss Sweeney continued her study of piano throughout her life, taking private lessons from Josef Lhevinne, Ernest Hutcheson, and Bela Nagy, and also practicing daily. In addition, she was a great patron of the arts, both in her community and internationally. She worked to restore the Wagner opera house at Bayreuth, Germany by founding the American Friends of Bayreuth, and was rewarded with the Officer’s Cross, Order of Merit, from the Federal Republic of Germany in 1956. She was also a benefactor and board member of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, and organized the Women’s Symphony Committee in order to promote the Symphony. She supported the School of Music at Indiana University and was a member of the Board of Friends of Music at IU. She also belonged to the Indiana Federation of Music Clubs and the National Federation of Music Clubs.

In addition to Miss Sweeney’s love for the fine art of music, she also took an interest in architecture. Initially, she gave talks using the slides she took of the old buildings of Columbus, and then she supported efforts for restoration of some of the original iron work on the Bartholomew County Courthouse. These activities also brought her to support the Bartholomew County Historical Society and also to serve on the board of the Indiana Historical Society. Miss Sweeney’s long interest in architecture also led her to helping to design and build her dream house, Castalia, a home with classic features but contemporary materials and construction, in 1962-63.

Miss Sweeney was also well known for her work organizing a local chapter of the organization Bundles for Britain in 1940, which collected clothing, made clothing, and earned money to assist air raid victims. When the United States entered the war, Miss Sweeney started a Bundles for America chapter, which provided similar assistance to the families of U.S. merchant seamen lost at sea in convoying troops abroad. Miss Sweeney’s local chapter of Bundles for Britain was so successful that after the war she was awarded the King's Medal for Service in the the Cause of Freedom.

The daughter of a prominent minister, Miss Sweeney, like her mother and sister before her, taught a Sunday school class at First Christian Church for fifty years. However, she also took part in the ecumenical movement, taking a leadership role in Church Women United, and was the chairwoman of the World Day of Prayer for 1958-59. She was served as a Director of the Council on Christian Unity and her interest in the ecumenical movement led her to do her own research in the New Testament. She produced a pamphlet on Baptism, where she postulated that the differences in belief about baptism are all based on an erroneous interpretation of Christ's teachings. Miss Sweeney also served with her fellow family members on the Board of the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Foundation.

Miss Sweeney never married or had children of her own, but she took great joy in her companionship with her niece Clementine and her nephew Joseph Irwin. It was said of "Miss Elsie", as she was affectionately known around Columbus, that she was "a lady who believes that happiness adds and multiplies and we divide it with others."

Elizabeth Clementine Miller Tangeman (February 17, 1905-January 17, 1996) was born to Hugh Thomas Miller and Nettie Sweeney in Columbus, Indiana. Clementine (and later on, her brother Irwin) grew up in a multigenerational household, surrounded by her parents, grandparents, uncle, and aunt. Conversations at the dinner table were adult conversations of business, art, politics, and religion. Clementine was exposed at a young age to what it meant to be a part of the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family and to what the family morals and values were. But still, like every young child, Clementine's great love and big dream was to become a concert violinist, and she kept countless scrapbooks filled with clippings from Musical America and programs from concerts she attended, mostly with her beloved Aunt Elsie, who surely nurtured Clementine's passion for music. Clementine attended Columbus Public Schools as a little girl, but was then sent to Emma Willard School, an all-girls boarding school in Troy, New York to broaden her horizons and learn independence. Clementine also followed in the footsteps of her beloved Aunt Elsie and attended Smith College, where she graduated cum laude with a degree in history in 1927. While at Smith, Clementine was active in the YWCA, drama, and orchestra.

After graduation from Smith, while some of her classmates were preparing for upcoming marriages, Clementine was looking at opportunities for international travel with her grandmother, mother, and aunt. Clementine travelled throughout Europe and a little bit into Africa and the Middle East. On a trip to London in 1928, she had the opportunity to be presented at the Court of St. James. Upon her return to Columbus, Clementine joined the other women in her family in teaching a Sunday school class; her's was the Clementia Class. During this time, she also became involved as a leader for a local Girl Scout troop in 1936, and Scouting would prove to be part of her life for the next 60 years.

A few years later, at the outbreak of the Second World War, Clementine helped her Aunt Elsie with Bundles for Britain and Bundles for America. Later, when the United States entered the war, Clementine was recruited by the Columbus Red Cross to organize a chapter of Gray Ladies, female volunteers for the Hospital and Recreation Corps. She was further challenged, while at a Girl Scouts meeting in Washington D.C., to go one step further and serve overseas, as she was unmarried and had no attachments at home. Hence, Clementine headed off for training in Washington D.C. and Camp Patrick Henry, before sailing for Africa and joining the 15th Evacuation Unit in Italy. Perhaps most dauntingly, when she was assigned to the Anzio beachhead, which was under fire, she was replacing a Red Cross worker who had been killed.

It was Clementine's experiences serving in Italy that brought her back again to the Girl Scout and international Girl Guiding movement. The Italian Girl Guides had been banned in Italy under Mussolini, but had met in secret for years. When the Americans came into Italy, the Girl Guides publicly came out again. Taking this inspiration with her, Clementine moved to New York City after the War and worked for the Girl Scouts' national headquarters in New York City. She worked for the International Division and raised (and contributed) funds to build a World Center in Cuernavaca, Mexico called Our Cabana. She also served as a member of the World Committee of the World Association for Girl Guides and Girl Scouts from 1957-63. She was also a founding member for the World Foundation for Girl Guides in 1971, serving as director for 1971-92 and President from 1977-84.

While working in New York City, Clementine occasionally had the opportunity to see Dr. Robert (Bob) Stone Tangeman, whom she had known previously, as he was a personal friend of Elsie Sweeney's when he was at the Indiana University School of Music. Dr. Tangeman had left IU for a position at Juillard and also Union Theological Seminary, where he taught musicology and piano/organ. Dr. Tangeman was particularly interested in liturgical music, and interest which was shared by Clementine, as she had spent a few years before and after the war compiling and editing a book, "Christian Hymns". Clementine and Bob spent about two years dating and sending each other almost daily letters, especially because Clementine travelled frequently both abroad and home to Columbus. They were married in a surprise ceremony at Clementine's childhood home, the Irwin Home, on Thanksgiving Day, 1951. In addition, this new marriage expanded Clementine's family, as Bob had a son from a previous marriage named John. Even after Bob's untimely death in 1964, Clementine continued her relationship with John as his stepmother, enfolding John and later John's daughter Anne into the larger fold of the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller family.

In addition to her activities with the Girl Scouts, Clementine was active as an alumnus of both Emma Willard School and Smith College. Clementine served on Emma Willard School's Alumnae Association board, general board, and she also chaired the school's first capital campaign. In 1965, Clementine was also the first woman in school history to become Chairperson of the Board. She also contributed financially to the school, enabling them to build new dormitories, a library, a music wing, an art wing, and to purchase a pipe organ. For her contributions to Emma Willard, the school now presents the Tangeman Award yearly to a deserving senior. Clementine also contributed financially to Smith College, and the College also named an award, the Clementine Tangeman Medal, in her honor. To honor her late husband, Bob, Clementine also contributed to the Union Theological Seminary, and with the help of her brother Irwin and the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Foundation, helped to establish the Institute of Sacred Music at Yale University.

Clementine also continued to work with her family, particularly her brother and sister-in-law, to contribute to the traditional family causes, the Christian Church, the Christian Foundation, the Christian Theological Seminary (a gift from Clementine herself established the Sweeney Chapel there), the city of Columbus, and Butler University, first through the Irwin Estate, and later through the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Foundation.

In addition to her activities as a philanthropist, Clementine enjoyed golfing, attending concerts, operas, and shows, playing the violin, painting, sketching, and entertaining guests in both her Columbus and New York City homes. Over the years, Clementine received many awards, accolades, and honorary degrees for her philanthropy.

Xenia Simons Miller (July 9, 1917-February 21, 2008) was born to Luther A. Simons and Nellie Hosetta Wellons in Morgantown, Indiana. Xenia received her unique name because early on, her father was a salesman for farm silos and part of his sales territory included Xenia, Ohio. He always liked the name, so he bestowed it upon the youngest of his four children. As a very young child, Mrs. Miller's parents ran a sawmill and later her father had a business making hickory furniture. However, in a bad financial deal, Luther Simons lost his home and business when Xenia was ten years old. Hence, the family moved to a rented house in Columbus, where rent was $1 a day, and Xenia remembers the family wondering how they would pay for it. At this time, Xenia advanced so far in school as to pass grades 6 through 8 in just one year. Xenia's father was finally able to make a go of his hickory furniture business with the Columbus Hickory Chair Company, in spite of the Depression. Xenia recalled that she never realized her family was struggling when she was at Columbus High School because so many people were also affected by the Depression. During high school, Xenia was involved with the Good Luck 4-H Club, and she attended the Christian Church, where she was in the Clementia Sunday school class taught by Clementine Miller. Xenia was influenced during her high school career by her English teacher, who encouraged a love of reading, and also by an art teacher, who encouraged Xenia's appreciation for fine art.

Upon her graduation from Columbus High School in 1934, Xenia's future mother-in-law, Nettie Sweeney Miller, offered to give her a loan to attend business school, which enabled Xenia to get a job at Irwin Union Bank, making $8 a week, and paying Nettie back $5 per week. The job at the bank led to a job at Cummins Engine Company, where she was the fourteenth woman hired in the office. She worked in the Purchasing Department, where her first task was to make a cross reference file for a room of catalogs for diesel engine parts and tools, which she hated. However, by taking night classes in blue print reading and metallurgy, she worked her way up in the company to a stenographer, then a buyer for office furniture, and finally a buyer of castings.

While at Cummins, Xenia joined the Office Committee Union and became a member of the union bargaining committee. It was across the bargaining table that she met the Cummins General Manager, J. Irwin Miller. Xenia and Irwin used to pass each other notes under the bargaining table, or leave notes on each others desks. Xenia remembers her courtship with Irwin as many “walks and talks”. Irwin and Xenia kept their engagement mostly secret, as Xenia had some misgivings and feelings of inadequacy marrying into the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family. However, Irwin convinced Xenia to join him in Washington D.C. in February of 1943, and they were quietly married on February 3, 1943, with Clessie and Stella Cummins and Uncle William Irwin in attendance. Shortly after their marriage, Irwin received his orders for the U.S.S. Langley, and soon after that, Xenia found out that she was pregnant with their first child. Xenia recalled that she and Irwin “lived happily ever after, after he came home from the war.”

Xenia and Irwin settled down in Columbus after the war and had four more children in addition to Margaret—Catherine, Elizabeth, Hugh, and William. Eventually their family would also expand to include ten grandchildren.

As part of the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family, Xenia fell right into the pattern of service to her community. She was a founding member of North Christian Church, where she also served as a church elder, chair of the trustees, and president of the Women’s Christian Fellowship. She also served as a board member on the Christian Foundation and Christian Theological Seminary. Additionally, she helped to found new community groups, such as the Bartholomew Consolidated School Foundation and the William R. Laws Foundation. Xenia was also responsible for some revitalization efforts in Columbus, such as the restoration of Franklin Square, the restoration and expansion of the Storey House, and perhaps her crowning achievement, the formation of the Columbus Visitors Center. Xenia also served as director and president of the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Foundation for a time.

With her inspiration for art appreciation fostered back in her high school days, Xenia became very well known for her artistic eye and taste in fine art. She was always kept her eyes open for new and exciting pieces during her business travels with Irwin, and she ended up purchasing works from some of the greatest artists of the 20th century before they were famous. In addition to her passion for fine art, Xenia also had a great appreciation for folk art, and she collected hundreds of crèches from all over the world, which she displayed at her home but also loaned out to institutions for display. Xenia’s passion for the arts of course also carried over into her community activities. She was a member and officer of the Indiana Arts Commission, the first chairwoman and later charter member of the Indiana Endowment for the Arts, a trustee at-large and life member of the Indianapolis Museum of Art, and a board member of Columbus Pro Musica, to name a few.

For her contributions, she received many an award and many joint awards with her husband. Perhaps most meaningful to Xenia were the honorary degrees she received from MacMurray College, Butler University, St. Mary-of-the-Woods College, and Christian Theological Seminary. She always had regretted that she never took the opportunity to receive a college education. Additionally, Xenia was named by the Indianapolis Star magazine as one of Indiana's Most Influential Women in 1974, and the Indianapolis Magazine named her as one of five Most Influential Women in Indiana in 1984.

Joseph Irwin Miller (May 26, 1909-August 16, 2004) was born to Hugh Thomas Miller and Nettie Sweeney Miller in Columbus, Indiana. Irwin grew up in a multigenerational household with his older sister Clementine, his parents, grandparents, aunt, and uncle. He enjoyed visiting his "Unk" William Irwin and his father at work, and was able to soak up the morals and values of the older generation of family members. He learned a commitment to family, God, and his community. Irwin attended school first in Columbus, and later was sent to Taft School in Watertown, Connecticut, where he was known to be shy, kind, and also quite studious. Irwin entered Yale University, where he studied the liberal arts, and majored in Greek and Latin. He graduated Phi Beta Kappa in 1931. Upon his graduation from Yale, Irwin wished to continue his liberal studies and expand his horizons. He decided to study for a Master's degree at Balliol College, Oxford. He was active at Oxford, participating in the Balliol College Boat Club (crew) and making lifelong friends who for the rest of his life referred to him as "Zilch".

Upon his return to the States, Irwin decided to enter into the family business first by spending a summer stocking shelves at Purity Grocery Stores in California, one of his Uncle's many investments. But in 1934, he stepped into the role of General Manager as another one of Uncle William's investments, Cummins Engine Company. It was at Cummins where Irwin Miller began to make a name for himself, because he took the company from a small operation in a small town that had yet to turn a profit into a multinational corporation that became a Fortune 500 company with over 25,000 employees in 131 countries.

Interestingly, it was also at Cummins where he met his future wife, Xenia Simons, who was a member of the employee's union bargaining committee. He married her in 1943, just a few months after he decided to leave Cummins to do his part to serve the United States during World War II in the Navy Air Corps, where he received the rank of lieutenant. Soon after his quiet wedding ceremony to Xenia, he received his orders to report to the U.S.S. Langley, an aircraft carrier that served in the South Pacific. During his time at sea, Irwin wrote Xenia most everyday (and she him). He described his experiences on the ship, his interactions with other crewmembers on the ship, his hopes for the future after the war ended, and his desires to know every detail of his daughter, Margaret Irwin, who was born while he was deployed. Irwin's letters also reflected his devastation and his will to come home to Columbus after the sudden death of his beloved Uncle William Irwin and shortly thereafter, his mamaw Linnie Irwin Sweeney.

Irwin received permission and an honorable discharge in order to return to Columbus and help his father to sort out the family businesses that were left without a leader after William Irwin passed away. Afterall, Cummins Engine Company produced items that were vital to the war effort. Irwin officially took over the helm at Cummins in 1945, and also took charge of the operations at Irwin Union Bank after his father Hugh Thomas Miller passed away in 1947.

Irwin, like his other family members before him, decided to make Columbus his permanent home. Yet, he saw that there was work to be done in Columbus, because in order to make his businesses successful, the city also needed to be successful and attract bright talent to ensure the businesses would continue to flourish.

Irwin's background in the liberal arts and his family background as patrons of fine arts led him to take an interest in public art, religious art, and modern architecture. Irwin assisted in bringing Eliel Saarinen to design a new building for the First Christian Church, which was completed in 1942. The relationship with the elder Saarinen brought him into circles with Eero Saarinen, Charles Eames, and other modernist architects. Irwin became such great friends with the younger Saarinen, Eero, that he commissioned him to build a home for himself, Xenia, and their family of five children, Margaret, Catherine, Elizabeth, Hugh, and William. Irwin and Xenia also chose pieces from the Charles Eames collection, such as his famous chairs to place around their dining room table. In addition, to give the entire city a boost, Irwin started the Cummins Engine Foundation, which worked with public officials and provided grants to hire world-famous architects to construct public buildings. Hence, the city of Columbus now has a church designed by Harry Weese, a library designed by I.M. Pei, and a Commons Centre designed by Cesar Pelli, among others. For his efforts, Miller was made an honorary fellow of both the American Institute of Architects and the Royal Institute of British Architects, and he was a member of the jury of the Pritzker Architecture Prize.

As much as Irwin Miller drew from his foundations in the liberal arts, he drew just as much from his earliest foundations in the Christian faith. He believed very strongly in Christian unity and inclusion, so much so that he and other members of the Disciples of Christ faith started a new church in Columbus, the North Christian Church, because they wanted all men and women to be treated equally within the congregation. Irwin also became interested and involved with the ecumenical movement in the United States, the National Council of Churches (NCC). He rose to prominence in the organization, and was elected as President of the organization from 1960-63, the first layman to ever hold the office. Miller's tenure at the NCC was not without controversy, and Miller was not always popular within all of the ranks of churches in the organization. Miller brought the organization to take a stance on Civil Rights, as he formed a Commission on Religion and Race within the NCC, helped to organize the March on Washington, advised the President of the United States on civil rights bills, and helped to organize a National Conference on Race and Religion in 1963.

Miller took much criticism for his stance on civil rights and desegregation, but he remained committed to it, not just with the NCC, or by supporting voter registration campaigns in the South, but also within his own community. He worked to desegregate the community of Columbus in terms of schooling and housing, and also within the workplace, and he actively recruited minority managers and trainees to Cummins. Miller's belief in the Civil Rights movement was not his only stance that drew criticism. Miller also supported the unionization of Cummins workers, pulled Cummins out of South Africa in protest of apartheid, and supported the decision that Cummins should extend domestic partnership benefits to their employees. Miller took a stand on these and other social and moral issues because at his core, he believed in the dignity of humanity, and that business, faith, and government could work together in order to bring out the best in people.

Miller's thoughtfulness, pragmatism, and creative spirit meant that he was sought out by presidents, politicians, international organizations, non-profit organizations and other businesses for input and advice. He served on a multitude of Presidential committees and commissions, including the Commission of Money and Credit (1958-61), Special Committee on U.S. Trade with East European Countries and the Soviet Union (Chairman, 1965), National Advisory Commission on Health Manpower (Chairman, 1966-67), President's Committee on Urban Housing (1967-68), President's Commission on Postal Organization (1967-68), and the Study Commission on U.S. Policy Toward Southern Africa (1979-81). He served with the U.N. as the Vice Chairman for the U.N. Commission on Multinational Corporations (1973-74). Outside of the family business interests, Miller served as a Director for the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the Equitable Life Insurance Society, and the Chemical Bank. In addition, Miller served as a trustee for Butler University, the Ford Foundation, the Museum of Modern Art, the Mayo Foundation, the National Humanities Center, and Christian Theological Seminary. Miller worked with both the Eisenhower Presidential campaign in 1952, and the unsuccessful Presidential campaigns of Nelson Rockefeller in 1968 and Mayor John Lindsay in 1972.

For these activities and many more, especially through the charitable giving he and his entire family did through the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Foundation, Miller received many awards and accolades over the years. He was given 17 honorary degrees. He received the Business Enterprise Trust's Lifetime Achievement Award in 1992, and was given the Herman B. Wells Visionary Award in 2002. However, perhaps the most personally meaningful honor that Irwin Miller received was to be named an honorary member of the Cummin's Diesel Workers Union. Consequently, his most personally embarrassing accolade was when Esquire magazine ran a cover article in October 1967 with a photo of Miller entitled "This Man Ought to Be the Next President of the United States". Miller had no idea when he was being interviewed and photographed that this was to be the nature of the article.

Former Mayor John F. Lindsay was quoted in that Esquire magazine article describing Miller, "He's one of the great people of this world. He's got insight, humor, wisdom, saltiness..." Lindsay was on target with his assessment. Irwin Miller seemed to be able to gracefully entwine his two opposing natures, the businessman who had to make tough decisions that affected the bottom line and the liberal artist who could look at the world with wonder, amazement, and excitement for what the future could bring.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family Collection is divided into 30 series ranging in date from the mid-1800s through the early 2000s.

Series 1 includes documents pertaining to Joseph Irwin Miller's business interests. The majority of the correspondence or financial documents pertain to Cummins Engine Company, and Miller's activities there as an Executive. The Cummins items do not reflect specific information about Cummins products or manufacturing. In addition, there are documents that pertain to Miller's leadership at Irwin Union Bank, Irwin Financial Corporation, Purity Stores, and Union Starch & Refining Company.

Series 2 includes documents pertaining to Joseph Irwin Miller's civic and philanthropic involvement. This correspondence pertains to the development of the city of Columbus, IN, with the Cummins Engine Foundation and also other projects that were funded through the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family Foundation, such as the Commons. Aside from state and local projects, there are documents pertaining to Miller's Presidential appointments to the Presidential Commission on Postal Organization, the Committee on Urban Housing, and the Health Manpower Commission. Additionally, a large portion of this series relates to Miller's activities with the Disciples of Christ, from The Christian Foundation to the Christian Theological Seminary, and finally, most notably, The National Council of Churches, an organization which Miller lead from 1960-63. On an international scale, this series documents Miller's involvement with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Conference on Cities in 1971, the Ford Foundation, and the United Nations' Multinational Corporation committee (1973-74).

Series 3 documents Joseph Irwin Miller's personal life. Aside from the awards, certificates, and honorary doctorates, there are many personal letters in this series where Miller is at times serious or at other times displays a wry sense of humor, depending on the subject. Perhaps most interesting are letters Miller wrote during his formative years, away at school (Taft, Yale and Oxford), entering the family businesses, and his time serving in on the U.S.S. Langley in World War II. Also contained in this series are the notes and lectures Miller presented to his Sunday School group at First Christian Church.

Series 4 pertains to Joseph Irwin Miller's political involvement. Miller was active in Republican Party politics, but was also known to support the occasional Democrat, such as Rep. Lee Hamilton. The majority of these papers are requests for contributions from various campaigns and Political Action Committees.

Series 5 contains notes, drafts, and text for speeches given by Joseph Irwin Miller. Most of the speeches contain a blend of insights into business, religion and human nature. Additionally, there are speeches that also contain Miller's political philosophies and thoughts on the place of government in society.

Series 6 documents the life of Xenia Simons Miller. There is correspondence regarding her activities with Christian Theological Seminary, the North Christian Church, the Columbus Visitors Center, the Indianapolis Museum of Art, and the Indiana Arts Commission, and with notable artists such as Dale Chihuly, Balthazaar Korab, and Henry Moore. There is also a large amount of Mrs. Miller's personal correspondence, particularly to Mr. Miller, in addition to invitations and thank you notes for various gatherings held or attended by Mrs. (and Mr.) Miller. Mrs. Miller also kept some short travel diaries documenting trips she took with Mr. Miller. Finally, there are personal planners/calendars that show Mrs. Miller's daily schedule.

Series 7 pertains to Clementine Miller Tangeman. This series contains memorabilia and correspondence from Mrs. Tangeman's time serving with the American Red Cross in North Africa and Italy (1943-45). Also, there is correspondence documenting Mrs. Tangeman's civic interests, particularly her alma maters Emma Willard School and Smith College, in addition to the Girl Scouts of America, the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts, the Yale Institute of Sacred Music, and the Christian Theological Seminary. The more personal items in the series include diaries, personal correspondence, and personal planners. This series also reflects Mrs. Tangeman's love of music and travel, with scrapbooks of clippings and programs from various operas and performances, and also travel diaries, itineraries, and ephemera. Mrs. Tangeman's husband, Robert Stone Tangeman's personal papers are also included in this series. Recipe cards containing Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family recipes can also be found in this series.

Series 8 pertains to William Glanton Irwin. This series contains business records, ledgers, and correspondence for Mr. Irwin's various business ventures including Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Company, Irwin's Bank, and Union Starch & Refining Company. There are also some of Mr. Irwin's personal financial documents and personal correspondences. Also included in this series are some political memorabilia, artifacts, and correspondence, a biography about Mr. Irwin that was written in 1999, a few works of fiction from his personal library, and also of the financial papers dealing with his personal estate.

Series 9 pertains to Elsie Irwin Sweeney. This series contains correspondence regarding Miss Sweeney's civic activities, particularly her work at Bayreuth. There are also a variety of personal records, such as correspondence and diaries. Some of her diaries and letters are written entirely in French, German, or Italian, as she spent time living with a family of French painters in Paris and also an Italian family because she was dedicated to working on her language skills. In addition, there are a great many scrapbooks filled with programs, fliers, and clippings regarding musical performances that Miss Sweeney attended over the years. Finally, there are her personal estate papers and a variety of awards and certificates she received over the years.

Series 10 pertains to Joseph Ireland Irwin. This series contains correspondence regarding Mr. Irwin's business dealings deeds for land under his ownership, and correspondence, financial statements, and ledgers for Indianapolis, Franklin and Greenwood Railroad Company, Indianapolis, Columbus, & Southern Traction Company, and Irwin's Bank, among others. There is also political correspondence and memorabilia, and personal correspondence, including the postcards he received for his 85th birthday. Also contained in this series are all of the documents, correspondence, and ledgers regarding his estate.

Series 11 pertains to Hugh Thomas Miller. This series contains speeches, memorabilia, clippings, and scrapbooks relating to Miller's political career. It also contains his personal finance records, personal correspondence, and documents relating to his personal estate. There is also general business correspondence that documents his involvement in the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family businesses.

Series 12 pertains to Nettie Sweeney Miller. This series is mostly made up of her diaries, documents that relate to her estate, and her personal correspondence.

Series 13 pertains to Zachary Taylor Sweeney. This series mostly contains papers documenting Sweeney's financial dealings and also his personal correspondence. There are also copies of his religious writings and biographies that were published about Sweeney and his religious philosophy.

Series 14 pertains to Linnie Irwin Sweeney. Of particular interest in this series is a diary that Mrs. Sweeney kept during her time in Constantinople, as well as a scrapbook of calling cards from her time spent there. In addition, there are tax returns, documents relating to her personal estate, and also her personal correspondence.

Series 15 pertains to Joseph Irwin Sweeney. This series is fairly short, as Sweeney's life was tragically cut short when he was a senior at Butler College. However, there is some of his personal correspondence as well as a variety of condolences and memorials that were sent to his family.

Series 16 pertains to John Chapman Miller. This series is made up mostly of books from Rev. Miller's extensive library, which he used for his own religious writing and sermons, but there are also books that he used to educate all of his children at home. In addition, there are Rev. Miller's diplomas, some personal correspondence, bound volumes of his writings and sermons, and account books for his farm.

Series 17 pertains to Gertrude Denslow Miller, the daughter of John Chapman Miller, and sister of Hugh Thomas Miller. She remained at the family farm in Nineveh as the caretaker after the death of John Chapman Miller. This series is made up of her personal correspondence, a few books, and personal accounting materials.

Series 18 pertains to the genealogy of the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family. Hugh Thomas Miller, his brother John F.G. Miller, and Clementine Miller Tangeman were the main genealogists in the family, and over the years, they made genealogical charts for the family and collected biographical information on their ancestors. These records are organized alphabetically by family/family member.

Series 19 is a catch-all of miscellaneous records and also records generated by multiple family members. For instance, there are records for The Christian Foundation, which were generated by William Glanton Irwin, Hugh Thomas Miller, and Zachary Taylor Sweeney. In addition, because much of William Glanton Irwin and Linnie Irwin Sweeney's wealth came from their father's estate, and because they both invested in businesses and gave many donations jointly, they have joint estate documents. In the same vein, there are records of Nettie Sweeney Miller and Elsie Irwin Sweeney's joint financial accounts. Records from the Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Foundation are contained in this series as well. Also in this series are documents and books that belonged to Hugh Thomas Miller's siblings, John F.G. Miller, Simeon V.B. Miller, Lucy Miller, and Laura Miller.

Series 20 is made of up microfilmed copies of many of the manuscripts in the preceeding series.

Series 21 is made up of family photo albums, which date from early family photos in the 1880s to more current photos from the 1990s. These albums contain portraits and document family travels, special events, holidays, and summers at Muskoka. There are also albums that are specifically made up of Cummins Engine Company-related events. In addition, there are three additional albums containing DVDs and printed inventories of all the photographs and negatives the Miller Children- Margaret, Catherine, Elizabeth, Hugh and William- had digitized.

Series 22 and 23 pertains to black & white and color photographs. There are portraits over the years of most Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family members. Photographs are arranged alphabetically by name and subject.

Series 24 pertains to Graphics. Of particular interest here are sketches and small watercolor paintings depicting American Red Cross workers and war scenes, which were collected by Clementine Miller Tangeman during her time serving with the American Red Cross in Africa and Italy.

Series 25 pertains to Postcards. These postcards were collected by William Glanton Irwin, Linnie Irwin Sweeney, Nettie Sweeney Miller, Elsie Irwin Sweeney, and Clementine Miller Tangeman on their worldly travels. The majority of the cards likely date from the 1920s to the 1970s.

Series 26 pertains to Negatives. The negatives are sorted by size- 35mm, 120mm, 4x6, or 5x7; type- polyester or acetate, black & white or color; and are organized in the guide by date.

Series 27 pertains to Audio/Visual materials. These are films, sound recordings, cassette tapes, LPs, video cassette tapes and DVDs. There are recordings of Elsie Irwin Sweeney giving a piano concert. Also, there are what appear to be home videos belonging to Clementine Miller Tangeman and Joseph Irwin Miller.

Series 28 pertains to Slides. Slides are arranged by year, dating from 1927 to 2000. Most of the slides were produced by Clementine Miller Tangeman.

Series 29 pertains to Paintings. Various oil or pastel portraits of Irwin-Sweeney-Miller Family members, Clementine Miller Tangeman, Joseph Irwin Miller, Elsie Irwin Sweeney, Nettie Sweeney Miller, Hugh Thomas Miller, Linnie Irwin Sweeney, William Glanton Irwin, Zachary Taylor Sweeney, and Harriet Clementine Glanton Irwin.

Series 30 pertains to Artifacts. These are personal items that belonged to the following family members: Joseph Ireland Irwin, William Glanton Irwin, Elsie Irwin Sweeney, Clementine Miller Tangeman, Joseph Irwin Miller, Xenia Simons Miller, Linnie Irwin Sweeney, Zachary Taylor Sweeney, Nettie Sweeney Miller, Hugh Thomas Miller, and Joseph Irwin Sweeney. There are also some miscellaneous items or items of indeterminate ownership, mostly Civil War buttons, epaulets and the like. The family artifacts are generally pins, political memorabilia/credentials, Irwin's Bank items, and various commemorative medallions.
