BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

James Ellis Taflinger was born in Indiana to Jacob Taflinger and Ethel James Taflinger in 1920. James was a WWII veteran (enlisted 8 May 1943). He also worked as an Indianapolis Public School teacher and then a principal for Charlestown High School in the 1950s. For most of his life, James resided in Hanover and New Albany in southern Indiana with his wife, Anna Mae Lowery Taflinger (1919–2014), and their children: Kenneth (died at eight years of age), James, Stephen, William, and Marianne. James died in 2017.

Harry Hayes Rinehart was born in 1876 to Samuel and Nancy Rinehart. He resided in Boone, Indiana, with his wife, Sina LaMaster Rinehart (b. 1902), and two daughters, Dorothy and Katherine.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This collection contains a variety of objects related to the Taflinger family as well as a few objects related to the Rinehart family. Of note is a memorial certificate honoring Clay James (James Taflinger's uncle) who died in battle in 1918 as well as a photograph adhered to glass that is possibly of Clay. There are also two photographs showing James Taflinger: a U.S. Army/Red Cross Identification photo and a photo of the Charlestown High School Class of 1951.

In 1965, Anne (Anna) Taflinger was part of a Grand Jury on the trial concerning the alleged abuse of incarcerated people by the deputies in the Marion County Jail. The collection contains press releases and news clippings about the trial as well as Anne's jury duty summons letter.

From Harry Rinehart, there are several booklets from the 1893 Columbian Exposition Chicago, name cards with "Harry" written on the backs in pencil, and the results of Harry's test for his teacher's license.
