BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Thomas Decker Cochrun was born 23 August 1946 in Indianapolis, Indiana. He is the son of Karl W. Cochrun of Muncie and Mary Helen Decker of Bluffton. As a Warren Central High School student, Tom worked as a sports stringer for the Indianapolis Times. During his college days at Ball State University he worked for Muncie radio station WERK as a newscaster and general assignment reporter. After graduating in 1968, Cochrun traveled to Europe where he did freelance pieces on the anti-Vietnam movement among European youth. He returned home in 1969 and took a position at WIBC/WNAP radio where he reported on police, city hall, and state house news. That year he married Lana Elmore at the Grace Lutheran Church in Muncie. The couple eventually had two daughters: Kristin Elizabeth and Katherine Meredith. In 1979 Cochrun went to work for CBS affiliate WISH Television where he produced the evening news magazine.

In 1981 he transferred to NBC affiliate WTHR Television where he became a senior news anchor and an award-winning investigative reporter and producer. During his fourteen years at WTHR Cochrun won numerous local and national awards for his documentaries. In 1981 he followed Ku Klux Klan leader Bill Wilkinson to Connecticut for an investigation into the resurgence of the KKK. Cochrun interviewed political officials, KKK victims, religious leaders, and KKK members during his investigation. Using these results, Cochrun wrote and produced the documentary Klan. The program premiered on 30 December 1981 to critical acclaim. The documentary netted Cochrun numerous awards including the 1981 Edward Willis Scripps Award for First Amendment Reporting, an Emmy in 1982, and a 1983 Ohio State Award from the Institution for Education by Radio-Television. In 1982 the Indiana Jaycees named him an Outstanding Young Hoosier.

Cochrun wrote and produced numerous other award-winning documentaries for WTHR including The Secret War at Home (1986) in which he exposed two Soviet KGB agents visiting America, Indiana's James Bond (1986) about American spy William King Harvey. He also produced Shelter of Shame (1984) about the deplorable conditions of public housing in Indianapolis, and Who is Protecting our Children? (1985) about sexual victimization of children. Cochrun's other investigations covered topics ranging from civil rights to natural disasters, presidential campaigns to medical research.

In 1994 he founded Nineteenth Star, a film company that provided creative media services for institutional clients. Cochrun served as the president and CEO of the company and later its chief creative officer. Nineteenth Star produced pieces for The Discovery Channel, TLC, Court TV, PBS, and The Travel Channel. The company also coordinated video and interactive elements for the Indiana State Museum, Conner Prairie, and the Soldiers and Sailors Monument in Indianapolis. When Nineteenth Star was purchased during a merger, Cochrun and his associate Ben Stout founded Masters Work Media, a production company that provides interactive programming for cultural institutions. In addition to his television work, Cochrun authored The Sanibel Arcanum (1994) and The Sanibel Cayman Disc (1999), and professional guide Crisis Coverage and News Room Credibility (1996).

In 2003 Cochrun returned to CBS affiliate WISH Television as the News Director until his retirement in 2007. Outside of his career, Cochrun was active in the Indianapolis community, serving on a variety of boards, including the President Benjamin Harrison Home, the Heartland Film Festival, the Writers Center of Indiana and other. Cochrun also serves on the Ball State University Alumni Council. After his retirement, Cochrun and his wife moved to Cambria, California.
